

The Hub

The Hub is a place for all visitors to get some clay under their fingernails. You can join artists in creative workshops, contribute to displays and installations, complete games and self-guided activities, and learn more about projects that the local community have been participating in during the run up to the festival.

Every weekend throughout the festival, The Hub will be busy with activity, including bone china flower making, clay slip painting, transfer decorating and pot upcycling, along with poetry performance, photography tours, site tours, talks, and family history master classes. Most activities are free and family friendly.
